W. JAY BARTH '87

Jay Barth '87 is Chief Education Officer for the City of Little Rock, coordinating the City's work to support education from birth through higher education with a particular focus on implementing the Community Schools Model in collaboration with the Little Rock School District. He is also the M.E. and Ima Graves Peace Distinguished Professor Emeritus of Politics at Hendrix College.

A native of central Arkansas, Barth attended Hendrix College, graduating magna cum laude with distinction in American Studies. He received a master's degree in 1989 and a doctorate in 1994 in political science from the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill. As a member of the Department of Politics at Hendrix from 1994 through 2019, he focused on developing and implementing programs to enhance interdisciplinarity and engaged learning. He led the task force that envisioned the Odyssey Program, which he later directed for three years; developed and directed the Mellon Foundation-funded Crossings Program; helped develop The Engaged Citizen first-semester course; and led civic engagement programming on the Hendrix campus. He served four times on the Council on Academic Policy and was the first elected Faculty Representative to the Board of Trustees.

Barth's academic research focused on the politics of the South, state government and politics, LGBTQ politics, political communication (particularly radio advertising), and the achievement gap in Arkansas. He co-authored (with the late Diane D. Blair) the second edition of Arkansas Politics and Government:

Do the People Rule? (2005). His honors include Arkansas Professor of the Year from the Carnegie Foundation for the Advancement of Teaching and the Council for Advancement and Support of Education; the Southern Political Science Association's Diane Blair Award for Outstanding Achievement in Politics and Government; the Distinguished Scholar Award from the Arkansas Political Science Association; the Distinguished Service Award from the National Association of State Boards of Education; and the Steiger Congressional Fellowship from the American Political Science Association, which included serving on the staff of the late U.S. Sen. Paul Wellstone (MN) working on education and civil rights policy.

From 2012 to 2019, Barth was a member of the Arkansas State Board of Education, chairing that body for two years and focusing on issues such as science education reform, enhanced broadband access, questioning expansive waivers to educational standards across the state, and improvement in student achievement in the state-controlled Little Rock School District. He has chaired numerous nonprofit boards at local, state, and national levels, and presently serves as vice-chair of the Downtown Little Rock Community Development Corporation and as a board member of the Central Arkansas Water Board of Commissioners, the ACLU of Arkansas and Planned Parenthood Great Plains.

Barth lives in downtown Little Rock with his husband Chuck Cliett, an attorney.
