The American Studies program provides an integrated and interdisciplinary approach to the study of U.S. history and culture. As such, it embodies the liberal arts aim of providing a breadth of knowledge to prepare students to be educated and inquisitive citizens of this dynamic and polysemic entity we call the United States. Course requirements ensure that students will (a) gain a variety of academic perspectives on American culture; (b) place American culture in some global context; (c) examine what ‘American Studies’ is; and (d) have the opportunity to pursue a specific area of interest, such as African American Studies or Southern Studies, within the larger field.

MAJOR

Twelve courses, as follows:

2 ENGL
2 HIST
2 POLI
1 SOCI/ANTH/PSYC
1 RELI/PHIL
1 non-U.S. culture (advisor approval)
2 other approved courses (including the above disciplines; see list)
1 AMST 401 Seminar in American Studies

- Two of these courses must be “linked” in fulfillment of the introduction to American Studies Experience requirement (described below).
- At least three of the ten courses should be 200-level, at least three should be 300-level, and at least two should be 400-level—AMST 401 (see below) and another 400-level course (seminar or independent study) from a participating department.
- At least three courses should emphasize pre-1900 content, and at least three should emphasize post-1900 content.
- Students are encouraged to direct course selection and semester projects toward their own interests (such as “the South,” “African American culture,” or “Women in America”) so that their work will truly culminate with the capstone seminar project.
- If a student double-majors in American Studies AND one of the participating areas, the student must fulfill the American Studies requirement from outside the other major. So a History-American Studies double major cannot count History courses toward the American Studies major.
- If a student majors in American Studies and minors in one of the participating American Studies areas, the student must fulfill the American Studies requirements from outside the minor area.

MINOR

Six courses, as follows:

1 ENGL
1 HIST
1 POLI
Two of these courses must be “linked” in fulfillment of the Introduction to American Studies Experience requirement (described below).

- At least three of the six courses should be 300- or 400-level courses.
- At least two of the six courses should emphasize pre-1900 content, and at least two should emphasize post-1900 content.
- If an American Studies minor is majoring in one of the participating areas, the student must fulfill the American Studies minor course requirements from outside the major department.

Introduction to American Studies Experience

- Two courses from participating disciplines “linked” together and taken during the same semester. The courses might share some material and texts, though certainly not all. So, as examples, POLI 245 American Political Thought might be linked with RELI 145 History of Religion in America, and ENGL 275 American Literature and the Environment might be linked with SOCI 375 Environmental Sociology.
- Periodically, as determined by the responsible faculty, the students will attend a joint class period devoted to readings and discussions of the larger issues: What is American Studies? What is the subject? What is the methodology? How successfully do these linked courses “do” American Studies?
- The link should be taken during the sophomore year. This “course” will give students the methodological foundations in the field as they pursue their upper level disciplinary courses, and it will introduce them to the theory and practice of American cultural studies.
- For the academic year 2006-2007, the linked courses fulfilling the Introduction to American Studies Experience are ENGL 274 Literature of the Progressive Era, and HIST 218 Progressive Era Reform, 1890-1920, in the spring semester.

AMERICAN STUDIES COURSES

AMST 401 Seminar in American Studies (W2)
Students will research a project of their own choosing, but will meet regularly with one another and a faculty member to discuss their progress and methodological issues, to present their work and receive feedback, and to foster their identity as members of a particular academic community as well as their appreciation of the nature of that community. The primary goal for the course is to ensure the students understand, appreciate, and can apply American Studies methodologies. It will also provide an excellent opportunity for students to revisit the question, What is American Studies
