“To err is human, to forgive divine.”

In preparing this President's Report and Honor Roll of Donors, every effort has been made to ensure accuracy and completeness. If a mistake was made in the way you or your spouse is identified or if your name was omitted from a gift list, we apologize.

With your help, we can ensure that future Honor Rolls report your name as you prefer. Please notify the Office of Advancement at (501) 450-1223 regarding any changes in the way your gifts should be reported in the future.

Hendrix charts a course toward national leadership

Since October 2007, Hendrix has been charting progress toward a new $100 million campaign goal. We have significant progress to chart in this year's President's Report, reflecting the accomplishments of the 2007-2008 fiscal year.

Thanks to your generous gifts and the outstanding leadership provided by the Board of Trustees and the Campaign Cabinet, we are moving steadily toward meeting our fund-raising goals and giving Hendrix the resources it needs to be a national leader in engaged liberal arts and sciences education. Although we have more work to do to reach our $100 million goal, it is not too early to start thinking beyond the end of this campaign and asking ourselves what comes next. We are able to think about the future because of the success we are experiencing today.

Our innovative Odyssey Program continues to draw national attention to the College. With the introduction this fall of our first Odyssey Professors, the impact of the Odyssey experience should only increase. Odyssey Professors will receive special funding to develop courses and engaged learning opportunities that connect critical thought with action. Madison and Suzanne Murphy (both '80) and the Murphy Foundation launched the professorships with $3 million challenge grant to match up to 12 gifts of $250,000. Five Odyssey Professorships have been fully funded and were awarded in the spring. (See Page 4.)

More students will be able to follow their passions through funded Odyssey projects because of the generosity of the Willard and Pat Walker Charitable Foundation of northwest Arkansas. The foundation issued a $4 million challenge grant with the goal of creating an endowment large enough to ensure that the Odyssey Program will continue indefinitely.

In the past year, Odyssey grants have funded projects as diverse as the students and faculty who proposed them. For example, in April the Odyssey Program awarded funding that will allow Prof. Brigitte Rogers and 20 students to learn how to manage a major dance festival by coordinating all the details when Hendrix College hosts the American College Dance Festival in March 2009. Odyssey grants will also support Robert Price '09 and Alan Lemmi '09 as they help Hendrix community members prepare for disaster by creating basic, portable emergency kits, and will fund Tiffany Lofland '09 as she researches the history of DC comics, exploring the process of developing a character and applying what she has learned to create her own comic book.

President Cloyd speaks during a ceremony at the Arkansas State Capitol recognizing 25 students from Rwanda who will be studying at colleges and universities in Arkansas and South Carolina for the next four years. A Hendrix-led consortium worked with the Rwandan government to develop the scholarship program.

Odyssey is making a real impact in the lives of Hendrix students. For many of them, that means foreign travel and study. The connections built during an Odyssey trip to Rwanda last summer will have a long-term effect on that country and on the students enrolled in Hendrix now and in the future. During the trip, we completed plans to bring four Rwandan students to Hendrix in Fall 2007. (Related story, Page 5.)

This summer, an additional 25 Rwandan students came to the United States to study at Hendrix and other colleges and universities in Arkansas and South Carolina. Six of them enrolled at Hendrix in August.

The students receive funding from the Rwandan government as part of its effort to rebuild the country's leadership, which was decimated in the genocide that tore the country apart in 1994.

This initiative is important for the future of Rwanda, but it is also important for all Hendrix students. Many of our students will benefit from internships we are establishing in Rwanda, but all Hendrix students can learn more about Africa while building connections with the Rwandan students on our campus.

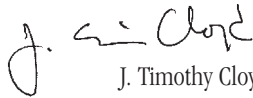

The Odyssey Program is transforming Hendrix as it transforms students' lives. Now, it is time to ask: what is next for this great institution? We will begin this conversation by asking how we can make the Odyssey Program more relevant, more appealing to prospective students, and more meaningful for all students. As we examine these questions, we will also consider:

- Expanding the depth and breadth of the curriculum.
- Increasing the visibility of our outstanding science programs.
- Developing a new holistic advising system.

I have charged the Hendrix faculty with addressing these issues and I am energized and intrigued by the ideas that are emerging.

Great ideas need support and encouragement to become reality. Your gifts have made our progress possible. We hope that we can continue to count on your support as we chart progress toward our goal of being recognized as a national leader in engaged liberal arts and sciences education.

J. Timothy Cloyd,
President

The Hendrix Campaign passes $70 million goal, sets new one

Gifts and pledges total more than $77 million as fiscal year ends

In late October 2007, with its $70 million campaign goal in sight, Hendrix College invited key supporters and friends to a celebration in Little Rock. The goal for the evening was more than celebrating our achievements. Hendrix also hoped to generate excitement for increasing the campaign goal to complete the College's transformation into a national leader in engaged liberal arts and sciences education.

The evening was called "Charting Progress." It began with displays and presentations from Hendrix students and faculty who have been part of The Odyssey Program, the innovative new component of the Hendrix curriculum that emphasizes putting critical thought into action. It ended with a 30-minute performance and an announcement that brought the audience to its feet: R. Madison Murphy '80, chair of the Hendrix Board of Trustees, announced the board's decision to raise the campaign goal to $100 million and to keep the momentum going until December 2010.

Reaching the $100 million goal will ensure that Hendrix has sufficient endowment to fund the Odyssey Program in perpetuity. It will also provide the funds needed to complete the new Student Life and Technology Center (SLTC), currently under construction.

A COMMITMENT TO NATIONAL LEADERSHIP:
THE HENDRIX CAMPAIGN

In the spring, Hendrix representatives took the message of the Charting Progress event on the road, hosting events in Dallas, Houston, Northwest Arkansas, Memphis, and New York. President J. Timothy Cloyd and other campus leaders joined Hendrix students and faculty as they talked about their Odyssey experiences at these events, helping those who couldn't visit the Hendrix campus catch some of the excitement.

Contagious generosity

Support of the new goal has been contagious and the generous response of those who love Hendrix has allowed us to end the fiscal year on May 31 with $77,728,677 in gifts and pledges to the campaign. This puts us in good position to reach our $100 million goal by the end of 2010 and to provide the funding that Hendrix needs to continue its mission of educating tomorrow's leaders. The Campaign Cabinet, co-chaired by Madison and Suzanne Nodini Murphy, both '80, and Dan '80 and Jennifer Jacuzzi Peregrin '81, has been energized by the response to the new goal. Cabinet members continue to work diligently to gather the support necessary to push the College over the top and ensure that the goal is reached by 2010.

Opening the new Wellness and Athletics Center

In late September 2007, Hendrix celebrated the opening of its new Wellness and Athletics Center with a dinner honoring donors and a convocation and formal dedication.

Before sitting down to dinner in the atrium of the new building, donors whose generous gifts made the building possible, toured the building and inspected the plaques listing their names. During the dinner, it was announced that the basketball court would be named in honor of Coach Cliff Garrison, long-time men's basketball coach and athletic director. Donations from his former players made this recognition possible. Family members of Coach Ivan Grove, for whom the competition gym is named, and Coach Bob Courtway, for whom the pool is named, were recognized. Danny Thomas '73, spoke about his reasons for choosing to name the Alumni Lounge, which overlooks the basketball court, in memory of his daughter Dandra Kay.

President Cloyd and Trustee David Knight '71 on stage during the Charting Progress event where Hendrix announced its $100 million campaign goal.

Former U.S. Senator Bill Bradley was the keynote speaker at the convocation, which drew more than 700 people to the new building. As a Rhodes Scholar, an Olympian, a professional basketball player, a long-time U.S. Senator, and author and a candidate for President of the United States, Sen. Bradley represents the kind of well-rounded life we hope that all Hendrix graduates experience. He visited with students in a politics class before the convocation and his remarks in that venue were widely reported, bringing national attention to Hendrix.

Mabee Challenge brings focus to SLTC project

In January 2008, Hendrix received notice that the J.E. and L.E. Mabee Foundation of Tulsa, Okla., had approved a $1.5 million challenge grant for the College's new Student Life and Technology Center (SLTC) — and the clock started ticking.

To meet the terms of the challenge and qualify for the $1.5 million grant, Hendrix must raise $20 million for the SLTC by Jan. 9, 2009. At the end of the fiscal year on May 31, 2008, Hendrix had raised $13.7 million toward the $20 million needed to meet the Mabee Challenge.

The final projected cost of the new building is nearly $23 million, so once the challenge is met, Hendrix will continue working to raise the remaining money to completely fund the building. The Mabee Foundation issued a similar challenge grant for construction of the Wellness and Athletics Center, which opened at the beginning of the Fall 2007 semester. Since 1972, Hendrix has received more than $5 million from the Mabee Foundation, most of it in the form of challenge grants.

"For more than 25 years, the Mabee Foundation has played a vital role in the development of facilities at Hendrix College that enhance the academic and co-curricular programs, and student life on our campus," Hendrix president J. Timothy Cloyd said. "Their gifts have also helped Hendrix develop into a national leader in the engaged liberal arts. Beyond just bricks and mortar, the Mabee Foundation has helped Hendrix change the lives of those who will go on to change the world."

By the end of August 2008, gifts and pledges for the SLTC totaled more than $15.7 million.

Completing the Mabee Challenge and fully funding construction of the new Student Life and Technology Center will be the primary focus of the College's fund-raising efforts in 2008-2009.

Building a new living room for the campus

Hendrix formally launched construction of the new Student Life and Technology Center in early March. The event, which introduced features of the building in a talk show format, attracted media attention and helped students and faculty better understand how the new building will be different from a traditional campus center.

Hendrix's Student Life and Technology Center will incorporate state-of-the-art technology unlike any other educational facility on a college campus in Arkansas, President Cloyd said. He called the facility "the new living room of Hendrix's campus," showcasing the Student Life and Technology Center as a place where students can relax, interact and utilize the world's most modern technology in an educational setting.

Along with a dining hall, café, game room and post office, the new 80,000 square-foot facility will include a 5,000 square-foot centralized programming space with state-of-the-art lighting and sound equipment and two 21-foot projection screens. The facility will also include offices for student affairs and academic support services, along with offices for student organizations and student media.

A distinguishing feature of the Student Life and Technology Center will be the Educational Technology Center (ETC), accessible 24 hours a day to students and faculty. The ETC will weave state-of-the-art teaching, learning, and social technology into Hendrix's campus, enhancing the educational experience with advanced technological features.

At the end of August, the outside framing of the building was completed and construction appeared to be on schedule to open the building for use at the beginning of the spring semester in January 2010.

Naming opportunities are available throughout the building. For a detailed list, visit www.hendrix.edu and click on "Charting Progress" in the top right-hand corner, or contact any member of the Advancement staff at Hendrix (501-450-1223 or toll-free: 877-208-8777).

Funding and filling the first five Odyssey Professorships

Near the beginning of the fiscal year, Madison and Suzanne Nodini Murphy, both '80, and their family, through the family's charitable foundation, gave Hendrix a $3 million grant to fund the Odyssey Professorship Program. Their gift was made in the form of a challenge grant with the goal of establishing an endowment to support the work of 12 Odyssey Professors. The Murphys proposed to match each $250,000 gift that the College secured to support the program, up to $3 million, creating a $500,000 endowment to support the work of each Odyssey Professor. The Odyssey Professors agree to use the special funding received from the endowment for faculty development that results in increased opportunities for engaged learning.

By mid-spring the College had pledges for most of the Odyssey Professorships and full funding for the first five.

Hendrix faculty members submitted proposals to develop courses or other engaged learning experiences that will ultimately stimulate additional student participation in the Odyssey Program. The first five Odyssey Professors, who will hold their professorships for one to three years, were announced in the spring and began their work with the start of the fall semester. The first five include:

- Professor of Chemistry Tom Goodwin has been named to the Julia Mobley Odyssey Professorship. Goodwin, the 2003 Carnegie U. S. Professor of the Year for Baccalaureate Institutions, will involve Hendrix students, as well as local high school students and science faculty, in pursuing research on chemical communication among mammals.

- Professor Joyce Hardin, Associate Professor Matt Moran, and Assistant Professor George Harper, all of the Biology Department, will jointly hold the Judy and Randy Wilbourn Odyssey Professorship, developing research and internship opportunities for Hendrix students in partnership with the Arkansas Game and Fish Foundation and the Nature Conservancy.

- Ian King is the recipient of the Morriss and Ann Henry Odyssey Professorship. He will pursue his research interest in Latin American politics, culminating in a study trip to Latin America with several Hendrix students.

- Jay McDaniel has been named to the Nancy and Craig Wood Odyssey Professorship, combining his interest in sustainability with research, service, and internship opportunities for students in partnership with Heifer International.

- Professor of Economics Tom Stanley has been named to the Bill and Connie Bowen Odyssey Professorship. An expert in meta-analysis, Stanley's project will involve students in international research projects in economics, will fund their participation in international conferences, and will allow them to be involved in the hosting of an international colloquium at Hendrix in 2010.

The professorships provide funding that empowers the faculty to explore and expand the parameters of engaged learning. Coupled with project grant funding, Odyssey Professorships will help ensure that the concept of engaged liberal arts and sciences learning, as codified through the Odyssey Program, remains central to the educational experience for all Hendrix students.

Walker Challenge helps ensure that the promise of Odyssey endures

Hendrix is very fortunate that, in spring 2007, the Willard and Pat Walker Charitable Foundation of northwest

Arkansas issued a 2:1 challenge grant to the Odyssey Program. The Walker Foundation promised to give Hendrix up to $2 million, donating $1 for every $2 the College raises from other sources. Completing the Walker Odyssey Challenge will create a $6 million endowment to support the Odyssey Program in perpetuity.

In 2004, Hendrix announced the creation of a bold new initiative called Your Hendrix Odyssey: Engaging in Active Learning. In the Odyssey Program, students complete at least three engaged learning projects from six categories, including artistic creativity, global awareness, professional and leadership development, service to the world, undergraduate research, and special projects, as part of their graduation requirements. In addition to a standard academic transcript, Hendrix graduates receive Odyssey transcripts that describe their individual projects. The transcript summary of their Odyssey experiences will benefit students as they seek admission to graduate and professional programs or employment in today's highly competitive workplace.

With the support of alumni, friends, and philanthropic foundations, the Hendrix Odyssey Program offers financial resources – available to students on a competitive grants basis – to support engaged learning experiences. Since the Odyssey Program's inception, the College has awarded close to $1 million to support engaged learning projects. Nearly $100,000 in Odyssey grants were awarded to 25 projects during the April 2008 funding cycle alone. Recent Odyssey projects that received funding include:

- Blake Burkert Zanzibar Medical Internship: An Immersion in East African Healthcare (Service to the World) For one month this fall, Blake will participate in a medical internship on the East African island of Zanzibar. He will work at Mnazi Mmoja Hospital, the major provider of health services in the country, taking patient histories and shadowing physicians.

- Caitlin Murphy and Abby Cape Survey of Post-Conflict Bosnia (Special Projects) Abby and Caitlin will travel to Bosnia, where they will conduct a survey of the nation and the impact of the conflict there in the 1990s that resulted in the deaths of 200,000 people—including civilians—and the displacement of approximately one million. Abby will focus on the country's Triumvirate political system that features three presidents and three legislatures to encompass the Bosnians, Croats and Serbians. Caitlin will study the role of nationalism and identity in the conflict, particularly in the religious, ethnic and national groups found in Bosnia.

Rwandan student makes quantum leap at Hendrix

Editor's note: Katie Rice's summer Odyssey project involved writing a series of articles about the Odyssey projects other Hendrix students are completing. Her stories are posted on the Hendrix Web site (www.hendrix.edu).

By KATIE RICE '10

Before he came to Hendrix last fall, physics major Jean Pierre Rukundo had never used a computer — especially not for physics. This summer, the Rwandan native has spent days in front of a screen, conducting complex calculations. That work is part of a summer Odyssey project that has exposed him to many new machines, from hybrid rockets to ring laser gyroscopes.

The 10-week project, “Thinking Forward: Skills for a Future in Physics,” was designed by the physics faculty and staff to give Rukundo the opportunity to work in-depth with each of them this summer. His five mini-projects include work with seismology, particle physics and rocket science.

As a rising sophomore, Rukundo is one of the youngest researchers on campus. Most science majors get their first research experience during the summer between their sophomore and junior years, but Rukundo will make his only visit home to Rwanda that summer.

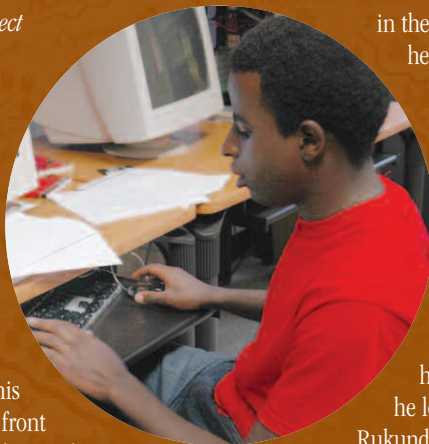

This project has allowed Rukundo to sample the research opportunities available in the department. At the same time, he is acquiring basic scientific research skills that will benefit him in whichever line of research he chooses.

“To have this ability to work with every physicist and work with every field of physics has opened my eyes to physics,” Rukundo said. “For example, when I worked [on hybrid rockets] with Dr. [Ann] Wright, we had to work in the machine shop and make designs of materials to do experiments. I didn’t know that a physicist can just go and use this machinery. I thought that would be engineering.”

Experimental physics is new to Rukundo, although he came to Hendrix with extensive preparation in mathematics and basic physics, but there was no lab component to his courses.

“Studying physics was lectures and quizzes,” Rukundo said. “Right now I feel like this is more exciting, because I’m doing physics. I see what I learned, and what it can do.”

On a day-to-day basis, Rukundo’s project is simple: he meets with the professor in the morning, learns a new theory, formula or technique, and spends the day practicing. Although he is only expected to work 30 hours a week, he spends upwards of 40 hours each week in the physics building, and his work continues long after he goes home at night. He assigns himself supplemental reading, to get background for his work. The work is difficult, but Rukundo likes the challenge.

“I have been wishing this for a long time,” he said. “In high school I wanted to work on physics only. Even here at Hendrix I want to work on physics only, but it’s impossible.”

Following the liberal arts tradition, Hendrix students are required to fulfill general education requirements. This summer, though, Rukundo has been able to dedicate himself fully to the science he loves.

Rukundo is one of four Rwandan students who entered their freshman year at Hendrix last fall. The students, who are all majoring in math or science, have received full, four-year scholarships through a program to rebuild the technological infrastructure that was destroyed in the country’s 1994 genocide. After completing their educations, the students agree to return to Rwanda to work for at least five years.

The program expanded this fall when 25 new students enrolled at schools across Arkansas and South Carolina, including six at Hendrix.

Rukundo came to the United States fluent in Kinyarwanda and proficient in French, but with little English experience. Despite the language barrier, which he has since bridged admirably, he has shown himself to be one of the college’s strongest physics students. He earned Dean’s List recognition this spring with a 4.0 grade point average.

After graduation, Rukundo plans to pursue master’s and doctoral degrees in physics. Because there is no graduate-level physics program offered in Rwanda, he will need to complete his studies abroad. He is anxious to return home with a Ph.D.

“I can’t live without Rwanda,” he said. “I will live in Rwanda and teach physics.”

Rukundo’s summer project was sponsored and funded by the Hendrix Odyssey program, a curricular program that offers funding and credit for experiential learning projects at home and abroad.

“Your Hendrix Odyssey: Engaging in Active Learning” is a major component of the Hendrix curriculum. The philosophy is, “You learn more when you do more.” Each student is required to complete three Odyssey experiences selected from six categories: artistic creativity, global awareness, professional and leadership development, service to the world, undergraduate research, and special projects. Rukundo’s project was Professional and Leadership Development.

• Kat Wallace Intern with the U.S. Embassy in Trinidad (Professional and Leadership Development) This fall, Kat Wallace will study at the University of the West Indies in Trinidad and will be an intern with Dr. Michelle Jones, the Public Affairs Officer at the U.S. Embassy in Trinidad, whose primary focus is on developing and presenting programs for the undereducated, and in particular, women.

Hendrix is committed to ensuring that these types of powerful and often life-changing learning experiences remain available for future generations of students. With the support of the Walker Challenge and the generous supporters who have stepped forward to respond to the challenge, the College feels confident we can continue offering the Odyssey experiences to Hendrix students for years to come.

At the end of the fiscal year on May 31, 2008, Hendrix had received $1 million in gifts and pledges toward meeting the Walker Challenge.

SLTC will provide home for Jewish Cultural Center

Hendrix students won't have to wait until the Student Life and Technology Center opens in January 2010 to experience the programming of the new Jewish Cultural Center, which will be housed in the $23 million building. Programming will begin in the Fall 2008. During the 2008-09 school year, the center's educational theme will be "Immigration and exile: The Jewish Experience in America."

Through lectures, symposia, films and discussions, the center will promote a broad understanding of Jewish culture, encompassing all aspects of sacred and secular Jewish life as well as its relationship to other cultures. The center will also highlight the long history of Jewish culture in Arkansas, seeking to heighten Hendrix students' awareness of Jewish life in the state.

"At Hendrix, the Jewish Cultural Center will serve as a resource for students, faculty and members of the general public, Jews and non-Jews alike, who wish to engage in the study and discussion of Jewish culture," President Cloyd said. "It's an exciting journey into an educational experience that will touch not only our current students, or even our future students, but the entire state of Arkansas."

The center has drawn the support of Dr. Michael Maling of Chicago, Ill., a member of the college's Board of Trustees who contributed $500,000 to help launch it.

"It's important to invest your money and your time into things that matter," Maling said. "With the support of the Jewish community in Arkansas, along with the efforts of the faculty, staff and students here at Hendrix, the study of Jewish Culture will enhance the lives of hundreds of current and future students at this fine academy."

Annual Fund gifts pass $2 million mark

Gifts to the Annual Fund totaled more than $2.16 million during the 2007-2008 fiscal year. More than 32% of Hendrix alumni contributed to the Alumni Loyalty Fund, the largest component of the Annual Fund. Alumni gifts were encouraged by Rev. William B. Smith '63 of Dallas, Texas, who served as National Chair for the Alumni Loyalty Fund; by Fred Price '56, chair for the Half Century Club; and by the Reunion Class Agents.

Hendrix restructured its alumni giving program over the past year to put more emphasis on reunion-year giving. Alumni representing the 10 reunion-year classes led special fund-raising efforts to encourage increased giving to the College in recognition of their reunion year. (See page 37 for a list of Reunion Class Agents.)

Gifts to the Parent Fund, a critical division of the Annual Fund, increased over last year under the leadership of Parent Fund Chairs David Marcello and Jane Johnson, parents of Ben Marcello '09. A $50,000 Parent Fund challenge led by the chairs along with Joe Matthews (Will '08), Thomas J. '76 and Elizabeth Smith Small '81 (Cary '08) and Gary and Deborah Whicker (Blake '11 and Dane '09) helped generate $182,001 in gifts from parents during the fiscal year.

All gifts to the Annual Fund go to meet the current needs of the College, including funding student scholarships, purchasing laboratory and classroom technology and adding library resources.

"We are grateful for the generous support of alumni, parents and friends," said Leigh Lassiter-Counts '01, director of Annual Giving. "Gifts to the Annual Fund, through both the Parent Fund and the Alumni Loyalty Fund, make an impact on students' lives every day. These gifts are a vote of confidence in Hendrix and enrich the overall student experience."

Leading the way in engaged liberal arts and sciences education

At the end of August 2008, gifts and pledges to The Hendrix Campaign totaled more than $81 million toward its goal of raising $100 million by 2010. W. Ellis Arnold III, executive vice president and dean of Advancement, said the challenge ahead is to keep focused on our goal of securing funding for the new Student Life and Technology Center and fully endowing the Odyssey Program.

"We have great momentum and excitement for this campaign," Arnold said. "The experiences of our students truly reflect that the Odyssey Program is changing lives and making a difference around the world. Their success and their enthusiasm remind us every day why our efforts matter and why your gifts make a difference."

Gills endow preaching workshop to benefit students, Methodist ministers

A generous gift from John and Marjem Gill of Little Rock will ensure that an annual Methodist preaching workshop hosted by Hendrix College will continue in perpetuity. Hendrix Chaplain Wayne Clark announced the gift in January.

The Gills, members of First United Methodist Church of Little Rock, were instrumental in starting the workshop in 1984. Since then, more than 380 ministers – including more than 60 percent of the current active United Methodist clergy in Arkansas – have attended. Their recent $50,000 donation has created the John and Marjem Gill Annual Preaching Workshop and Lectures Endowment, which will allow the two-day workshop to become a permanent, annual resource for Methodist ministers and Hendrix students alike.

The endowment will provide resources to bring to campus each year a national leading preacher or professor with expertise in homiletics. The workshop leader will present a lecture that is open to the public, lead a workshop for clergy, and, when appropriate, preach in the chapel, meet with pre-theological students, and visit classes of Hendrix students.

“I have been very blessed during my time at Hendrix to have an opportunity to work with John and Marjem on bringing some of the best preachers to Hendrix College,” Clark said. “Their love for the United Methodist Church is seen in so many ways. Their gracious gift will continue to provide an excellent workshop for Arkansas preachers and current Hendrix students.”

Twenty-five clergy from the United Methodist Church of Arkansas will be invited to attend, free of charge, each year. Additional ministers may also choose to participate for a small fee. All interested Hendrix College students are also welcome to the Gill Preaching Workshop, which will be a tremendous resource for them in their own vocational discernment, Clark said.

Walter Brueggemann, a preacher and Old Testament scholar, will lead the 2008-09 workshop.

W. Ellis Arnold III rejoins Hendrix staff to lead Advancement division

W. Ellis Arnold III became Executive Vice President and Dean of Institutional Advancement at Hendrix College in August.

Arnold '79 replaces Dr. Rock Jones '80 who became president of Ohio Wesleyan University on July 1.

As Executive Vice President and Dean of Institutional Advancement, Arnold is responsible for the College's fund-raising, alumni and constituent relations, and communications efforts, along with management of strategic growth activities. He serves as a member of the Senior Staff, the top administrators who work closely with the President in the overall management of the institution.

“I am thrilled to have someone with Ellis Arnold's experience join the Senior Staff of the College,” said Hendrix President J. Timothy Cloyd. “He brings 18 years of senior administrative experience and a proven record as a strategic planner and fund raiser. I look forward not only to the contributions he will make in his leadership of the Advancement division but also to what he brings to the senior management group”

A 1979 graduate of Hendrix, Arnold earned a juris doctorate from the UALR School of Law, where he was a member of the Law Journal, in 1982. He was in private practice in Little Rock for eight years.

Arnold returns to an institution he served as Vice President of Development and General Counsel from 1990 to 1996, when he left to become president of Lambuth University, a United Methodist-related liberal arts college in Jackson, Tenn. He left Lambuth in 2004 to become president of Pulaski Academy in Little Rock in 2004.

Arnold said he looks forward to rejoining the Hendrix team and helping the College continue building momentum.

“It is an honor to return to Hendrix at such an exciting time in its history. I am inspired by the entrepreneurial spirit of the Board of Trustees and the bold vision of President Cloyd and the Board,” Arnold said. “I am pleased to have an opportunity to help Hendrix complete its $100 million campaign and I look forward to providing leadership that will help the college achieve its goals and advance its mission.”

June

President J. Timothy Cloyd, Provost Robert L. Entzminger, Board of Trustees member David Knight '71, and assistant professor Daniel Whelan lead an Odyssey trip to Rwanda. Eleven students explore the small, east-central African country for 17 days. Through visits to sites such as the Sonrise Academy, where Hutu and Tutsi orphans live in harmony, the group learns first-hand how Rwandans are recovering from the genocidal war of 1994. Students also meet with Rwandan President Paul Kagame and his ministers to discuss the past and future of the country.

Joe Haldeman, one of America's most decorated science fiction writers, lectures on "Writing Alien Worlds" as part of the Hendrix-Murphy Foundation Programs in Literature and Language series. The program's annual theme is "Possible Worlds, Other Worlds."

July

The Murphy Program for Language & Literature funds the first Hendrix-in-Madrid summer study abroad program. Eight students study with Spanish professors at the Universidad Complutense de Madrid for one month, earning two course credits. Students only pay for their airfare and spending money.

August

Hendrix implements the automated H-Alert system, designed to immediately notify Hendrix College students and personnel of emergency situations via e-mail and text messages.

The Hendrix family gained 410 new members, including four freshmen from Rwanda. Through a partnership with Hendrix College and the Rwandan government, Albine Niwemugeni, Gilbert Ndayambaje, Mireille Mutesi and Jean Pierre Rukundo were all given four-year full scholarships to attend Hendrix.

November

The Hendrix Early Literacy Program – a partnership between Hendrix College and Sallie Cone Elementary School in Conway – is awarded the Innovation in Teacher Education Award by the Southeastern Regional Association of Teacher Educators. Susan Perry, an education professor, began the intervention program in 2004.

President J. Timothy Cloyd and Chaplain J. Wayne Clark lead a service to dedicate the labyrinth, a place for prayer or meditation. The labyrinth is part of a larger plan to build a columbarium to house the ashes of alumni and friends of the college.

Jay Barth '87, associate professor of politics, is selected as Arkansas' Professor of the Year by the Council for Advancement and Support of Education (CASE) and the Carnegie Foundation for the Advancement of Teaching.

Dr. Karen Griebbling's new recording receives a favorable review from a top classical review Web site. "The Music of Alan Hovhaness for Horn, Voice and Strings" includes Hendrix College Chamber Orchestra, conducted by Griebbling, with Hendrix faculty soprano Suzanne Banister and Arkansas Symphony horn player Robin Dauer as soloists.

September

Four senior theatre arts majors direct showings of an excerpt of Suzan-Lori Parks' 365 Days, 365 Plays, a collection of short plays written each day over the course of a year. Hendrix students perform Week 44. More than 700 theatres worldwide have presented the pieces, creating one of the largest grassroots collaborations in theatre history.

Melba Patillo Beals, one of the "Little Rock Nine," addresses more than 700 Hendrix students in the packed Staples Auditorium. Her speech commemorates the 50th anniversary of the integration of Little Rock's Central High School, and Beals receives multiple standing ovations. Hendrix students are familiar with her story, having read her autobiography, "Warriors Don't Cry: A Searing Memoir of the Battle to Integrate Little Rock Central High School," in class. Afterward, students wait up to an hour to meet Ms. Beals and get her autograph.

Hendrix College alumnus Tom Fleener '92, an attorney and former Guantanamo Bay military defense counsel, visits Hendrix as the first Hendrix Alumni Doing Democracy speaker of the year. Fleener, who was recently profiled in a GQ Magazine story titled, "The Defense Will Not Rest," has been an outspoken critic of the use of special military trials for terrorist suspects.

Former U.S. Senator Bill Bradley officially opens the College's new $23 million, 100,000-square-foot Wellness and Athletics Center, encouraging its users to develop the facility as a place of personal and community growth. The WAC includes an indoor track, four indoor tennis courts, an indoor soccer court, a 26-foot-high climbing wall, an aquatic center with a sun porch and a retractable roof, and a state-of-the-art fitness center.

April

January 2008

Ten students on the Journeys of Reconciliation mission trip visit four southern cities to explore the Civil Rights Movement and the history of racial desegregation in the South. The trip is organized by the Hendrix-Lilly Office.

Professors Alex Vernon and Deborah Skok lead eight students through Vietnam to study the Vietnamese education system and how it has changed since the implementation of doi moi, or economic restructuring, in the 1980s. The group spends one week in Ho Chi Minh City and one week in rural areas of the country.

Hendrix hosts Friday Night Stix, a free community event to celebrate Hendrix's final home lacrosse game. Featuring free food, fun, and fireworks, the event sought to introduce lacrosse to the Conway community. More than 1,200 people attended.

Hendrix grants more than $197,000 to fund 55 Odyssey projects in engaged learning – the largest amount awarded in the Odyssey Program's three-year history.

Katie Pratt '08 of Shreveport, La., receives the 2009 Walker-Odyssey Fellowship, a $12,500 grant that will allow her to pursue independent exploration and travel outside the U.S. Pratt plans to use the fellowship to investigate how globalization and other socio-cultural factors have affected women's traditional food practices and their body image throughout the world.

February

Hendrix awards Odyssey Medals to five alumni whose life achievements exemplify the Hendrix Odyssey program. Walter O. Pryor '87, a policy strategist, receives the medal for Professional and Leadership Development. Dr. Jack L. Blackshear Jr. '64 receives Odyssey Medal for Service to the World for his numerous mission trips to Honduras. Natalie S. Canerday '85 receives the medal for Artistic Creativity for her performances in films such as October Sky. Bracken P. Darrell '85, the president of the multinational corporation Braun, is honored for Global Awareness. Kenneth R. Nixon '65 receives the medal for Special Projects for developing a long-distance care-giving system that allows older adults to stay independent longer.

Seventy percent of the Hendrix students registered to vote on campus choose Illinois Sen. Barack Obama in the Super Tuesday primary.

March

Kelly Zalocusky '09, a biochemistry and psychology double major from Belleville, Ill., is the 19th Hendrix student selected as a Goldwater Scholar. The award for excellence in mathematics, science and engineering provides a scholarship to help her fund her final year at Hendrix.

Campus Kitty, an organization that sponsors a week of fundraising, raises a record-breaking $42,025, an increase of $6,000 over last year's total.

May

Jennifer Robin Tate '08, an English major from Germantown, Tenn., becomes the 29th student to receive the President's Medal and carry the banner of the College during commencement on May 10.

Following a 13-month study of the costs and benefits, the Hendrix College Board of Trustees directs the college's administrators to develop NCAA Division III non-scholarship intercollegiate football and women's lacrosse at the college. Football has been absent from the college since the 1960 football season.

At the close of the fiscal year on May 31, 2008, Hendrix recorded another year of financial stability and sound management. The financial information reported here is the unaudited results from the period beginning on June 1, 2007 and ending on May 31, 2008.*

The financial stability of the College can be attributed to many factors, including gifts from alumni, friends, United Methodists, corporations and foundations. Endowment growth is also extremely important to the College and a key factor in its continued financial strength. Tuition, gifts, and endowment earnings – the three sources of income for the College – combine to provide a high-quality educational experience for all Hendrix students.

*Prior to 2006-2007, the Hendrix fiscal year began on Aug. 1.

A note from your national chair

I have enjoyed very much serving as National Chair for the Alumni Loyalty Fund because I see first-hand the difference alumni giving makes. Outstanding national recognition of Hendrix in recent years and the on-going success and prominence of our graduates continually reminds us all how wonderful Hendrix really is. Through alumni gifts we share in our College's success, knowing that our generosity helps pave the way for future generations of students. Thank you for doing your part and showing the world how much Hendrix means to you. Hendrix students benefit each and every day from the generosity of those that came before them. Thanks for another great year!

Class of 2008
gift will shade
future students

Traditionally, graduating seniors vote as a class to select a gift as their tribute to the College. Eighty-three members of the Class of 2008 gave a total of $9,437. Their gift is native hardwood trees to be planted once the Harkrider Street roundabouts and median construction are complete. Future Hendrix College students will appreciate the shade and beauty provided by the Class of 2008.

Every year, hundreds of alumni, parents, and friends of Hendrix give their time and talents in support of the College. This year, we have made a first attempt to name those whose gifts of time have benefited Hendrix. We ask for your patience and understanding, too, if we have accidentally omitted your name. If you volunteered for Hendrix between June 1, 2007 and May 31, 2008 and your name is not included here, please contact us at alumni@hendrix.edu and we will post your name on our Hendrix Web Community site along with the list below. Thank you for showing your support of Hendrix by donating your time and talent to the College.

A special thanks to reunion agents

This past year, special volunteers from the 10 Hendrix reunion classes embarked upon a new journey—the Reunion Gift program. Through the work of these individuals, each reunion class welcomed new donors, as well as increased gifts from regular donors, all to benefit student scholarships and financial aid and to enhance the Hendrix experience for our students. Hendrix remains grateful to these volunteers for their efforts.

Parent Fund Chairs make a difference

Hendrix parents represent a vital part of the Hendrix community. The College benefits each year from dedicated parents working hard to enhance Hendrix. The Parent Fund is one such way that Hendrix parents make a big difference in the daily lives of all Hendrix students.

Parent Fund Chairs David Marcello and Jane Johnson (son Ben Marcello '10), proved invaluable to the success of the 2007-2008 Parent Fund. As tireless and enthusiastic volunteers, they communicated the message of the Parent Fund to their peers and helped build relationships among Hendrix parents.

Through their efforts more Hendrix parents were engaged and more lives touched. Thanks for a great year!

Faculty, staff chairs inspire gifts

Each year, the Hendrix College Annual Fund benefits greatly from faculty and staff who give back to support Hendrix students. Such gifts are one of the strongest votes of confidence for the College, even helping to make the case for outside funding from corporations and foundations.

Dr. Garrett McAinsh, Harold and Lucy Cabe Distinguished Professor of History, and Shorty Wofford, Dining Services team member, shared their stories with faculty and staff peers for the 2007-2008 school year and made the case for the importance of philanthropic gifts to the College.

As chairs of the Faculty/Staff division of the campaign, their leadership inspired faculty and staff members to make a significant difference again this year in the success of the Hendrix College Annual Fund.

Honor Roll — Matching Gift Companies

If your employer has a matching gift program, you can magnify the impact of your donations to Hendrix. Doing something as simple as filling out a short form can often double your gift. Hendrix received more than $100,000 in matching gifts during the 2007-2008 fiscal year. Please help us by checking to see if your gift to Hendrix will qualify for a matching gift and then pass that important information along to us.
